

Will Allen

Urban Agriculture: Food Justice for All

Gardeners - Urban Farmers - Composters - Worm Growers - Community Builders

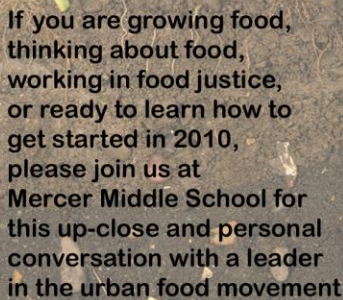

“Building an Equitable, Sustainable Food System in Seattle and King County”

“Inside the Farmers Studio” with Will Allen, CEO of Growing Power & 2008 MacArthur Genius Grant Recipient

February 3rd, 2010

7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.

Mercer Middle School Auditorium 1600 Columbian Way, Seattle

If you are growing food, thinking about food,
working in food justice, or ready to learn how to get started in 2010, please join us at Mercer Middle School for this up-close and personal conversation with a leader in the urban food movement

Food Justice - Equity in Access - Sustainability - Green Collar Careers - Food Security

Seattle has many successful established and emerging programs to reduce hunger and provide access to healthy, locally grown food.
It is time for an evolution, collaboration, and improvement.

Join supporters of the local urban farming movement for an evening of insight, information, and clarity with Growing Power's Will Allen at Mercer Middle School Auditorium to discuss and consider ways Seattle and King County residents can strengthen and advance their role in local food justice.

This Event is FREE for the Public

Mercer Auditorium is just a short drive from downtown Seattle:
From Interstate 5 or State Route 99, take the Columbian Way Exit Go East up the hill to Beacon Hill and follow Columbian Way to 15th Ave. So. Curve Left at Oregon St. onto Columbian Way again and the Mercer Middle School parking lot is on the Left at 1600 Columbian Way.

Mercer Middle School Auditorium offers free parking.

Mercer is served by Bus Lines 39 and 60 more info: 206.508.1260 C4C Office www.growingpower.org

Growing Methods - Education & Assistance - Food Production and Distribution - Fun